RUSHVILLE MAN CALLED IN PROBE

John Gantner One of Witnesses Today in Investigation of Acts of Last Legislature.

GRAND JURY INSTRUCTED

Governor Ralston is Allowed to Have Representative at Hearing on His Request.

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 8.—Judge Markey today instructed the grand jury to allow assistant attorney General McCullough to attend the hearings on the fraudulent passing of bills through the recent legislature. He will represent Governor Ralston at the latter's request.

The judge instructed the jury to consider nothing else than the fraud cases.

Among the witnesses called today were John Gantner of Rushville, chief clerk of the engrossing room, Senator Gavitt, Senator Jackson and Wade Ferce of Anderson, secretary of the senate.

Foreman Roesner of the jury promised indictments in case any were found guilty.

John Gantner, referred to in the above dispatch, was mentioned in connection with the alleged illegal passage of bills in the last legislature when the disclosures were first made, but he denied that he had any part in any of the acts leading to the making of laws out of bills which never passed through the legislature.

The Senator Jackson mentioned in the dispatch is not former Senator Carey Jackson of this city. The only other senator in the 1913 session of the Indiana general assembly was Rolland T. Jackson of Versailles, Ripley county, according to Carey Jackson, who was at his home here today.

The Rushville man, since the last session, has resigned from the senate. He relinquished his seat to seek the nomination for county treasurer on the Democratic ticket and was defeated.

There isn't any doubt but that the Senator Jackson referred to in the Indianapolis dispatch is the man from Ripley county because Carey Jackson said today that he had not been called to testify before the Marion county grand jury.

Carey Jackson explained this afternoon that Senator Rolland T. Jackson was a member of the enrolled bills committee of the state senate and had to pass on all bills before they went to final enrollment. "So you see," concluded Mr. Jackson, "if any bills which were not passed were made laws, he will have to explain how it happened."

FUNERAL TOMORROW.

The funeral services of Joe Lyons, who died suddenly yesterday from heart disease, will be conducted Friday afternoon at two o'clock at the late residence in West Second street by the Rev. A. D. Batchelor. Burial will take place in East Hill cemetery and will be in charge of the Red Men.

WANT $100 DAMAGES.

John M. Stiers filed suit this afternoon against the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis railway company for damages demanding $100. Mr. Stiers in the complaint states through the negligence of the railway company he lost a valuable field of clover by fire and that a section of fence was also destroyed. He places his loss at $100.

ANTWERP IS STILL IN TACT

With Outer Fortifications Broken, Belgian City Continues to Essay Fierce Resistance.

VILLAGES ALL ABOUT BURN

Germans Not Confining Bombardment to Forts But Are Dropping Shells into City.

(By United Press.)

Asterdam, Holland, Oct. 8.—With her outer ring of fortifications broken, and with every village within miles of the city in flames, Antwerp continued today to essay the fiercest resistance to the besieging Germans. The city itself, according to trustworthy advices reaching here, was still in tact at noon. The Germans were bombarding both the city and the fortifications but seemingly the shells dropping in the city proper were "over-shots." Few of them exploded, but it was plain that the besieging forces had the range of the city and that they were prepared to wipe it from the face of the earth whenever they decided to turn their guns in earnest on the city itself.

Lierre and Contich were practically destroyed yesterday. The shells the towns and block after block of houses with no one to attempt to check the progress of the flames.

Fort Waelhem and Wavre are now nothing but holes in the earth. They have simply smothered out of existence by the terrible shell fire of the German big guns. Their garrisons perished at their posts of duty. The German artillery is also reported to have proven terribly destructive near Vossberg.

The villages of Hove, Horssel and Vieux/Dieu have all suffered heavily. They are deserted and many of their houses, especially the poorly constructed homes of the workers, have been leveled to dust. The scenes among the refugees of these villages and towns who flocked into Antwerp are indescribably pathetic. Families have been separated. Some have fled into Holland for safety. Others line the roads leading to the border. Weeping women are frantically seeking their missing children. Babies of tender years are toddling along the streets and the country roads weeping hysterically. Families are utterly without information of the whereabouts of fathers, mothers, brothers, sisters. Thousands are hungry. There has been no attempt as yet to systematize the exodus of the non-combatants. Many are stolidly remaining in their homes hopeless, despairing, prepared to accept death as inevitable.

The Dutch people along the border are systematic. But already their resources have been taxed to the utmost. They are doing their utmost to relieve distress and to feed the hungry. They have established a number of concentration camps where these latest refugees will be housed for the present. But outside aid must come and come quickly unless thousands of innocent women and children are to die of starvation.

SLOWLY REGAIN LOST TERRITORY

Allies Armies Are Again on Offensive in France, Paris War Office States Today.

CAVALRY BATTLES FOUGHT

More Confident Ring in Today's Statement Than There Has Been Any Day This Week.

(By United Press.)

Paris, Oct. 8.—The allied armies are again on the offensive. It is officially admitted that they are slowly regaining every foot of the territory sacrificed to the Germans in the early days of the week. The Germans are being thrown back between the Somme and the Oise and have also been driven North of Arras.

But it is the cavalry engagements that overshadow all also. All along the northern frontier of France the mounted troops of both armies are in battle. The official communique laconically says that the fighting "extends nearly to the North Sea." Behind that announcement is contained the declaration that the Germans are still doing their utmost to cut the British lines of communication. And, to prevent this the crack French cavalry assisted by the Indian horsemen of King George are fighting desperately, and according to all reports successfully.

There was a more confident ring in today's statement than at any time this week. It is declared here that the British and French reinforcements are already on the firing line and that it is due to their efforts that the Germans are being driven back.

The Germans continue to endeavor to resume the offensive in the Woivre region but so far they have failed. In every attempt they have been repulsed with heavy losses. It is now accepted that there will be a long delay before a decisive result can be secured in the North. The Germans continue to bring their reserve lines into action indicating that their preparedness is phenomenal. These reserve divisions, for whom it was recently reported difficulty was being encountered in securing uniforms and equipment, are reported to be fully as well fitted out as are the first line troops.

There is no news from Antwerp. The seat of government has been moved to Ostend and little surprise will be expressed here if the city after its honorable resistance is surrendered to prevent its complete destruction.

WILL CONVEY TOMORROW

Grand Jury May Take up Wagner Murder Mystery Then.

The grand jury will meet Friday, according to present arrangements. This will be the second meeting of the grand jury this term of court as a one day session was held about two weeks ago. It is not known what the grand jury will take up tomorrow for investigation but the murder of Milton Wagner, the Eighth street grocer, who was killed by supposed burglars, will likely come in for consideration. The grand jury will probably investigate the murder in the hopes of obtaining a clue as to who committed the crime.

A marriage license was issued yesterday afternoon to Pearl B. Cheseldine and Mabel Cline.

PLANS ARE MADE IN GREAT HASTE

Horse Show and Fall Festival Committees Are Preparing For Event Week After Next.

THERE IS MUCH TO BE DONE

Industrial Parade, Special Exhibits and Booths Promise to be a Feature.

Preparations are going forward for the annual horse show and fall festival with great haste. All of the committees are working and prospects are now that the event, the first of its kind ever attempted here—that is the local fall festival is new—will be a pronounced success.

One of the most active committees is that working on the industrial parade. The committee has obtained the promise of some merchants to have floats in the parade. Manufacturers are also to be solicited by the committee in an effort to swell the pageant to as large proportions as possible. A representative from each town in the county is on the committee and they will be asked to arrange for a display from their place if it is possible.

The suggestions for decorations have been taken up readily. Even though the special committee to see the merchants has not made the rounds of the business houses yet, some merchants have already made plans for booths. There will be no regularity about them. Merchants will erect them in any size and shape they see fit. Some will use the booths to display their goods and others will make them purely as rest rooms for guests here for the show and festival.

In addition to having a float in the industrial parade, the manufacturers, green houses and other business houses outside the business district have been invited to make displays from booths down town. It has been suggested that some business men with locations down town might co-operate with manufacturers or others outside the business district in erecting a booth.

This plan will be followed by some. For instance, Johnson's Drug store, Haydon's hardware store and Clark & Sons, flour manufacturers, will build a booth in front of Haydon's and Johnson's and divide it into three compartments. This ideal will undoubtedly be carried out by others.

There are other announcements of plans for the festival which are not quite mature yet and which will be completed in a few days. Several other things are said to be in store to make the project an entirely successful one.

ELDEN COOK, AGE 18, DIES

Son of John Coon of Near Orange Expires of Tuberculosis.

Elden, Coon, 18 years old, son of John Coon, living near Orange, died at his home there shortly after four o'clock yesterday afternoon after a long illness from tuberculosis. He had been in a serious condition for some time and death had been expected. Besides his father he is survived by four brothers and two sisters. The funeral services will be conducted Friday afternoon at two o'clock at the Salt Creek church and burial will take place in the church cemetery.

TO OBSERVE SPECIAL DAY

Public Schools Will Have Fire Drills Tomorrow and Prevention Will be Chief Topic.

QUESTIONS ARE ANSWERED

Literature Recalls This Fortieth Anniversary of Chicago's Great Fire.

Fire Prevention Day will be observed in the schools of the city tomorrow with fire drills and talks on what to do in case of fire. In the lower grades literature dealing with fire losses and along the general line of prevention were given the children. In the high school and the seventh and eighth grades the pupils were given blanks to fill out. These statistics will in turn be sent to the state fire marshal's office.

Tomorrow is the fortieth anniversary of the Chicago fire and because of this the day in Indiana is that much more appropriate. The attention of the children will be called to the fact that the Chicago fire, like most great conflagrations, was caused by carelessness. This will be pointed out in some of the literature from the state fire marshal's office. In one of the circulars the cause and loss of property in this fire is given.

The purpose of all this is to acquaint the school children with conditions and to teach them how to prevent fires. The list of questions that the pupils will be asked to answer pertain to conditions in the home and the parents are asked to co-operate with the children in answering the questions, as they contain some things that the parents should know as well as the children.

The following is the list of questions to be answered: Do you use safety matches?; are floors under stoves protected and how?; are walls, ceilings and partitions protected from over-heating stoves or furnaces?; how are ashes disposed of?; of what material is the house?; of what material is the basement?; is basement or foundation enclosed?; are chimneys built on the ground or on brackets?; are chimneys in good repair?; do stovepipes pass through attic, closets or unused rooms?; do stovepipes pass through partition without metal protectors?; do you keep gasoline?; where and how?; do you stoves or furnace and what kind?; do you kerosene?; have you any fire extinguishers?; are you familiar with the location of the fire alarm box nearest your home?; where is it?; do you know how to turn in an alarm?; do you know the telephone number of the fire department?; name any unsafe conditions that exist in or about your home?

Along with the literature to be passed out is the proclamation of Governor Ralston designating Friday as Fire Prevention Day and the reasons for doing so. It is stated that the annual waste in Indiana caused by fires is between five and eight million dollars. The schools here usually have fire drill once every month but the one tomorrow will be the first this year.

FINED FOR SPEEDING.

Gibson Ross pleaded guilty to the charge of speeding before Mayor Bebout last night and was fined one dollar and costs, amounting in all to $11. Ross at first pleaded not guilty and was going to stand trial. The trial was set once and then postponed. Later he decided not to fight the charge and paid his fine.

CORN SPECIAL TO VISIT HERE

Dr. J. W. T. Duvel of U. S. Department of Agriculture Will Explain New Standards.

G. I. CHRISTIE WILL SPEAK

Meeting Will be Held in Court House Assembly Room Here Tuesday, October 27.

A two weeks corn tour of the state on which Dr. J. W. T. Duvel of the bureau of grain standardization, United States department of agriculture, Washington, D. C., and Prof. George I. Christie of the Agricultural Extension department of Purdue university, will begin Monday, October 18 at Noblesville and end at Tippecanoe, Saturday, Oct. 31. The special will visit here Tuesday, October 27.

An hour's meeting will be held at each stop. An average of three a day will be held. The Rush county meeting will be in the court house assembly room and is advertised for twelve-thirty o'clock. The special will come here from Greensburg where a meeting will be held Monday evening, October 26.

Placards which have been sent here to advertise the meeting announce in bold letters that "Corn is King," but that when marketed it must be graded according to the new United States standard. This is one of the chief objects of the state tour of two weeks.

Dr. Duvel will present the new standards fixed by the United States and will explain the necessity for and advantage of grading accordingly. Prof. Christie will discuss the necessity for and importance of better corn and better conditions of corn for marketing under the United States grades. He will also talk on kindred topics of special interest to producers and handlers of grain.

The bills sent here announce that the meetings are open to the public and that all interested persons are urged to attend. Especially is the presence of grain dealers, millers and farmers requested because it is these three classes that the speakers would like to reach with their argument for better corn and their explanation of the United States standards.

Local grain dealers, millers and county agents, wherever there are any but there happens to be no county agent in this county—will have charge of the meetings and will supply information concerning them.

NOTICE RED MEN.

There will be a call meeting tonight at 8 o'clock to make arrangements for the funeral of Bro. Jos. Lyons. All Red Men are requested to meet Friday afternoon at 1 o'clock at the wigwam to attend the funeral.

Suffered Twenty-One Years — Finally Found Relief

Having suffered for twenty-one years with a pain in my side, I finally have found relief in Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root. Injections of morphine were my only relief for short periods of time. I became so sick that I had to undergo a surgical operation in New Orleans, which benefited me for two years. When the same pain came back one day I was so sick that I gave up hopes of living. A friend advised me to try your Swamp-Root and I at once commenced using it. The first bottle did me so much good that I purchased two more bottles. I am now on my second bottle and am feeling like a new woman. I passed a gravel stone as large as a big red bean and several small ones. I have not had the least feeling of pain since taking your Swamp-Root, and I feel it my duty to recommend this great medicine to all suffering humanity. Gratefully yours,

MRS. JOSEPH CONSTANCE, Echo, La. Personally appeared before me, this 15th day of July, 1911, Mrs. Joseph Constance, who subscribed the above statement and made oath that the same is true in substance and in fact.

Good Things Never Sell Below Par

But many an inferior article is sold for twice its worth. This is especially so in vehicles. Very few dealers sell buggies at one price to all. We do and everybody pays the same. That is the reason our buggies are lower priced than our competitors. We have but one price and it has to be low enough to impress our customers and get the business. We want you to see our storm buggies. They are the best that can be bought and we believe we have the only door that can not and will not rattle. You can not find a better storm buggy with a better reputation for road service or a finer looking one than we have but you can find higher priced ones that simply mean more profit tacked on. Be guided by these facts rather than led by false hopes and when you get ready for a storm buggy we want to show you the best line you ever looked at and at a price that represents value received. You will eventually buy your buggies of Spivey. Why not start now?

Miss Letta A. Branam, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Branam and George M. Lowden were married yesterday afternoon by the Rev. A. D. Batchelor at the parsonage of the St. Paul M. E. church. Both are well known young people. Mr. Lowden is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lowden. They will reside on a farm in Walker township.

A number of relatives delightfully surprised Mr. and Mrs. Barton Caldwell, who were married recently, at their home in Jersey City last evening. Red raspberries, a second crop from the garden of W. H. Young, father of Mrs. Caldwell, were served. The fact that raspberries just picked from a Rush county garden October 7 could be served with ice cream was marveled at. Mr. and Mrs. Joe Cowing, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Young, Mr. and Mrs. Norm Norris and Mrs. Lucinda Caldwell and daughter, Miss Laura Caldwell, were present. Mr. Cowing told today of the raspberries being served. He said he was almost afraid to after he had told of seeing snow fall one morning early last month. But in this case, Mr. Cowing says, he has ample proof from persons who ate the raspberries.

A marriage license has been issued to the Rev Maurice E. Abel of Richland and Laura M. Jones of Milroy.

PARTY
Why not now?

Everett Haymond has sent an interesting communication to the Shelbyville News of the illegal method in which the registration in Liberty township, Shelby county, was taken last Monday. He said M.
Stratton was named committeeman for the south precinct in Liberty township by the Progressives. It was not long until he was candidate for trustee on the Progressive ticket.
The communication says that above mentioned M. Stratton "had himself appointed" clerk to serve on the registration board. When the registration place opened, Thursday, voters of the precinct made verbal protest of the presence of Stratton on the board, declaring it to be illegal.
Stratton told them he would not get off. Then a written protest was made to the inspector. Again the inspector asked Stratton to get off the board and again he refused. The result is that many voters have become incensed at Stratton for his actions, according to Haymond.

terrible bombardment from all sides.
Following refusal to acquiesce in the demand for the surrender of the city by the military authorities, the Germans who previously had confined their fire to the encircling chain of forts, turned their guns on the city itself. They had given two hours notice to the inhabitants to leave and thousands flocked out in utter panic.
The roads to the Dutch frontier are littered with household goods, clothing and personal belongings of every character abandoned by the terrified Belgians in their mad rush to safety.
The procession started orderly enough but with the booming of the big guns panic followed to the crowd still near the city and they rushed madly ahead. Horses, wagons, automobiles, were utilized for the flight but there were hundreds who had to walk many miles over roads ankle deep in mud and filth.

Reports from the city itself say that great shells are dropping everywhere and that many houses have been destroyed already. The Germans claim that they have beaten the Belgians from both the outer and inner lines of fortifications. They claim that they have taken four heavy batteries, 52 field guns and many machine guns after crossing the Nethe river. Fort Broecken, the Germans claim, was taken by direct assault after having been bombarded for two days.

EAT LESS MEAT IF BACK HURTS

lots of water.

Eating meat regularly eventually produces kidney trouble in some form or other, says a well-known authority, because the uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish; clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region; rheumatic twin-gles, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.
The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy;
take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.
Jad Salts cannot injure anyone;
makes a delightful effervescent lithiawater drink which millions of men and women take now and then to keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus avoiding serious kidney disease.

they crossed the Nethe. It is stated that King Albert still remains in the city and is directing the defense although all of the archives of the government have been transferred to Ostend.

It is stated that the German aviators continue their attempts to fly over the city and that they have dropped a large number of bombs.
Belgian airmen are constantly attacking them but the Germans so far have had the better of it as their armored Taube machines are much faster than those of the Belgians. It is believed that one half of the population of Antwerp has already fled.
The hospitals in the city are being protected by the display of both the Red Cross and the American flags as Consul General Diederich has taken them all under his protection.

It is generally accepted here that the Belgians can hardly hold out more than a couple of days at the most. They had considered their Nethe river positions absolutely impregnable but they were utterly wrecked by the pounding of the heavy German shells. The losses to the Garrison are declared to be very heavy.

The crossing of the Nethe by the Germans was one of the most spectacular episodes of the present war.
The Germans first tried to build pontoon bridges under the protection of their heavy artillery. The Belgians pushed their guns forward and frustrated six separate attempts in which the Germans lost heavily. Finally the Germans clustered their heavy field artillery stone point and simply built a wall of steel projectiles around their engineers. The latter hurriedly threw four sets of pontoons into place and then two German divisions were rushed across and carried the Belgian positions at the point of the bayonet.

GERMANS REPORT GENERAL SUCCESS

Statement Says French Efforts to Regain Lost Ground Are All Frustrated Easily.

RUSSIANS FAILING ALSO

(By United Press.)
Berlin, (Via The Hague) October 8.—The official announcement of the war office today stated that the attack on Antwerp continues without interruption; that the outer forts have been reduced; the inner line is crumbling and that it is considered certain the fall of the city is only a question of a short time.

The situation in France is said to show very little change. The attempts of the French to recover lost ground have all been frustrated and the German right wing is reported as making progress. Fighting continues in the eastern theatre of war, it is announced, with the Russians failing in every attempt to break through the German lines.

In the list of casualties posted today appeared the name of Major General Augustus Zellman, commander of the second Bavarian field artillery who was killed in action leading his troops more than a week ago. Rudolph Uhlstein the publisher who is serving with a volunteer auto corps and Dr. Adolph Von Fleckner have created knights of the Iron Cross order for conspicuous service.
Both are well known in the United States.

ALEXANDER HAD RECORD YEAR

Phenom of Phillie Team Pitched Remarkable Ball With Bum Team Back of Him

BEST AVERAGE IN NATIONAL

Reports Have it That Dooin Will Be Deposed as Manager of This Team Next Year

BY HAL SHERIDAN
(Written for United Press.)

New York, Oct. 8.—With the amazing record-breaking rush of the Boston Braves to the top of the National league after being a poor last the first of July taking up all spotlights in this world of sport some other mighty interesting features in connection with the annual baseball marathons have been overlooked.

One of these features—and one that deserves far more than ordinary mention, is the work of Grover Cleveland Alexander, that pitching phenom who wiggles for the greatest hard luck club in the world—the Phillies. This year Alexander has been breezing along at the fastest clip of any pitcher in the National league loop literally standing the batters in that organization on their heads.

Alexander, with a patched-up very ordinary club behind him has piled up the best pitching percentage in the league. His work has been marvelous, considering the support accorded him. He has been the one and only consistent winner for the Phillies. He has worked hard too, worked like a trojan all year. Dooin determined to keep his warriors out of the cellar, called on Alexander often and the big twirler responded with a victory almost every time.

Which causes us to pause and think what might have happened. Just suppose, for instance, that Tom Seaton hadn't jumped to the Brooklyn Federals. Seaton, with his class would have added at least twelve more wins to the Philadelphia club's standings. And those same victories marking off a like number of defeats would have put the Phillies out in front of the Braves, where they could not have been headed.

Another thing that figured strong in the slump of the Phillies this year was the absence of Shortstop Mickey Doolan. He, too, fell for the big salary inducements held out by the Feds. Baltimore got him.

Dooin was in sore straits to plug the gap left by Doolan's departure. For the first three months of the season he kept trying out different ones there and in the meantime the ones getting the trials kicked many a game away for him. These same games would have been won in all likelihood if Doolan had been in the lineup.

Reports now have it that Dooin is to be deposed this winter as manager of the Phillies. The rumor has floated often before. This time it really seems to be founded on fact.

Well, maybe Dooin hasn't made good. He hasn't if you simply look at the percentage table, showing where the Phillies finished, but if you've followed the career of the red-headed scrapping leader you know that he hasn't fallen down on the job through lack of ability.

Dooin takes the prize for being the most unlucky cuss that ever attempted to drive a ball club to victory. He knows baseball, knows it like a book. He knows how to play it and knows also how to teach others to play it. He can handle men so that he can get the most out of them. But when it comes to wrestling with Fate and putting that old joy-killer's shoulders to the mat the sorrel-topped one isn't there. He admits that is out of his line.

And Fate has sure landed some terrible wallops on the fighting jaw of Dooin. In fact this Fate person seems to have taken a supreme delight in just scattering its punishment along so that it could hand the red head enough every season to keep out of the running.

Ever since he has been at Philadelphia, Dooin has had a pennant winning aggregation in the spring.

The critics are all unanimous in the spring in the verdict that on straight form Dooin's club should make a parade out of the pennant derby, with themselves so far out in front that there wouldn't be anything to it. And just as regularly before the season was very Old Man Fate would come along and soak Dooin in the jaw for the count of ten. First Fate put over his wallop in the shape of injuries to players. He would see that just enough of Dooin's stars got hurt to seriously cripple the team, when they would recover he would see that others jumped up, keeping the regular team shot to pieces all the time. Then next Fate showed himself by getting Dooin's star outfielder, Shortstop Magee, to slam an umpire, with the result that the outfielder was out of the lineup for some time. And his absence hurt.

Fate's latest turn was to lure Dooin's stars away via the Federal league. Dooin might as well give up until he finds some means of handing this Fate person a knock-out wallop. He is a loser on falls as it stands.

GLOOM SETTLES ON PHILADELPHIA

Official Forecaster Says Showers May Mar or Prevent Opening

World's Series Game.

SIGNS OF RAIN PLENTIFUL

(By United Press.)

Washington, Oct. 8.—Gloom for baseball fans was the keynote of a special forecast made today for the world series.

Showers may har ar prevent the opening game at Philadelphia tomorrow, Prof. Frankfield, forecaster, said today.

"Unsettled weather probably showers" was the Philadelphia prospect. "Thunderstorms are general" said Prof. Frankfield.

"It looks pretty gloomy for the big game tomorrow. Showers are very likely to occur. Just what time—morning or afternoon, or night—we can't surely predict. But signs of rains are plentiful."

Frankfield said there was no general storm in sight but generally showery and unsettled weather was in prospect. He said it was too far ahead to predict weather conditions for Boston next week.

BIG SEASON FOR PACER NEXT YEAR

Single G., Cambridge City Gelding Trained by Curt Gosnell, Will go to Grand Circuit.

WINS ABOUT $6,000 THIS YEAR

Single G. winning 12 out of 14 starts on the half mile tracks this year has established a half mile record for three-year olds, several individual track records, won recognition as one of the greatest pacing geldings of the present season and retired. The boy gelding which created such furor in the short ship circuits has been brought home and stabled for the winter. He won near to $6,000 this year.

Next spring Single G., the speediest consistent pacer in the half mile circuits this year and untried on the full distance, will be tracked for the mile events and sent into the Grand Circuit. That is the report that comes from men who are close to W. B. Barefoot, of Cambridge City, owner of the bay.

Curt Gosnell had some tough luck this year in the matter of rheumatism and did not have a fair chance with the horse himself. He drove him in but two races. Howard Vickery, who is now in charge of a Pittsburgh stable drove him twice. The other performances were recorded under the whip of Jameison.

Two programs he was withdrawn because of illness, once illness to Gosnell and once illness of the horse forcing it. The last two programs of the short ship circuit he was not entered and was brought home. A big season is expected for him for next year.

Science Proves Purity of Beer

Beer is the final word in cleanliness. Even in these "pure food" days, beer with its absolute freedom from impurities, towers above other food products. Cleanliness is as important to beer as is the sunshine to the ripening grain from which it is brewed. Beer is even more sensitive to foreign substances than milk. Every brewmaster knows that the slightest impurity will ruin his product. The cleanliness and wholesomeness of brewing methods is a revelation to the uninitiated and a delight to our modern sanitary experts.

Said Mr. H. E. Barnard, State Food and Drug Commissioner of Indiana:

"It is now a fact that the cleanest and most sanitary food on the market, as food is defined by the Indiana law, is beer. It is in the breweries that sanitation has been brought to as nearly perfect condition as is possible in a food-producing establishment. The water used in the material is all distilled. The hops and malt are absolutely clean before being permitted to enter into the manufacturing process. The vats, pipes, etc., are not merely washed, but scalded and thoroughly sterilized before being used. The bottles are thoroughly sterilized by being washed in caustic soda. And as if that were not enough, when the beer is placed in the bottles it is pasteurized by being run through hot water which would kill every germ which might have escaped the warfare conducted against it in the process of manufacture.

"The person who opens a bottle of beer is assured absolutely that what he has before him is a product absolutely free from germs and perfectly clean. It is also true that he may know that he has before him the only manufactured food article which may be said to be absolutely clean."

CHAPTER I.

The Message of the Rose.

Lapped deep in the leather-bound luxury of an ample lounge-chair, walled apart from the world by the venerable solitude of the library of London's most exclusive club, Mr. Alan Law sprawled (largely on the nape of his neck) and, squinting discontentedly down his nose, admitted that he was exhaustively bored.

Now the chair filled so gracefully stood by an open window, some twenty feet below which lay a sizable walled garden, an old English garden in full flower. And through the window, now and then, a half-hearted breeze wafted gusts of warm air, suave and enervating with the heavy fragrance of English roses.

Mr. Law drank deep of it, and in spite of his spiritual unrest, sighed slightly and shut his eyes.

An unspoken word troubled the depth of his consciousness, so that old memories stirred and struggled to its surface. The word was "Rose," and for the time seemed to be the name neither of a woman nor of a flower, but oddly of both, as though the two things were one. His mental vision, bridging the gap of a year, conjured up the vision of a lithe, sweet silhouette in white, with red roses at her belt, posed on a terrace of the Riviera against the burning Mediterranean blue.

Mr. Law was dully conscious that he ought to be sorry about something. But he was really very drowsy indeed; and so, drinking deep of wine-scented roses, he fell gently asleep.

The clock was striking four when he awoke; and before closing his eyes he had noticed that its hands indicated ten minutes to four. So he could not have slept very long.

For some few seconds Alan did not move, but rested as he was, incredulously regarding a rose which had materialized mysteriously upon the little table at his elbow. He was quite sure it had not been there when he closed his eyes, and almost as sure that it was not real.

And in that instant of awakening the magic fragrance of the rose-garden seemed to be even more strong and cloying sweet than ever.

Then he put out a gingerly hand and discovered that it was real beyond all question. A warm red rose, fresh-plucked, drops of water trembling and sparkling like tiny diamonds on the velvet of its fleshy petals. And when impulsively he took it by the stem, he discovered a most indisputable thorn—which did service for the traditional pinch.

Convinced that he wasn't dreaming, Alan transferred the rose to his sound hand, and meditatively sucked his thumb. Then he jumped up from the chair and glared suspiciously round the room. It was true that a practical joke in that solemn atmosphere were a thing unthinkable; still, there was the rose.

There was no one but himself in the library.

Perplexed to exasperation, Alan fled the club, only pausing on the way out to annex the envelope he found addressed to him in the letter-rack.

It was a blank white envelope of good quality, the address typewritten, the stamp English, and bore a London postmark half illegible.

Alan tore the envelope open in absent-minded fashion—and started as if stung. The enclosure was a simple playing card—a trey of hearts!

As for Alan Law, he wandered homeward in a state of stupefaction. He could read quite well the message of the rose. He would not soon forget that year-old parting with his Rose of the Riviera: "You say you love me but may not marry me—and we must part. Then promise this, that if ever you change your mind, you'll send for me." And her promise: "I will send you a rose."

But the year had lapsed with never a sign from her, so that he had grown accustomed to the unflattering belief that she had forgotten him.

And now the sign had come—but what the deuce did the trey of hearts mean?

When morning came, London had lost Alan Law. No man of his acquaintance—nor any woman—had received the least warning of his disappearance. He was simply and sufficiently removed from English ken.

CHAPTER II.

The Sign of the Three.

Out-of-doors, high brazen noon, a day in spring, the clamorous life of New York running as fluent as quicksilver through its brilliant streets.

Within-doors, neither sound nor sunbeam disturbed a perennial quiet that was yet not peace.

The room was like a wide, deep well of night, the haunt of teeming shadows and sinister silences.

Little, indeed, was visible beyond the lonely shape that brooded over it, the figure of an old man motionless in a great, leather-bound chair.

His hair was as white as his heart was black. The rack of his bones, clothed in a thick black dressing-gown with waist-cord of crimson silk, from the thighs down was covered by a black woollen rug. He stared unblinkingly at nothing: a man seven-eighths dead, completely paralyzed but for his head and his left arm.

Presently a faint clicking signal disturbed the stillness. Seneca Trine put forth his left hand and touched one of a row of crimson buttons embedded in the desk. Something else clicked—this time a latch. There was the faintest possible noise of a closing door, and a smallish man stole noiselessly into the light, paused beside the desk and waited respectfully for leave to speak.

"Well?"

"A telegram, sir—from England."

"Give it me!"

The old man seized the sheet of yellow paper, scanned it hungrily, and crushed it in his tremulous claw with a gesture of uncontrollable emotion.

"Send my daughter Judith here!"

Two minutes later a young woman in street dress was admitted to the chamber of shadows.

"You sent for me, father?"

"Sit down."

She found and placed a chair at the desk, and obediently settled herself in it.

"Judith—tell me—what day is this?"

"My birthday. I am twenty-one."

"And your sister's birthday: Rose, too, is twenty-one."

"Yes."

"You could have forgotten that," the old man pursued almost mockingly. "Do you really dislike your twin-sister so intensely?"

The girl's voice trembled. "You know," she said, "we have nothing in common—beyond parentage and this abominable resemblance. Our natures differ as light from darkness."

"And which would you say was—light?"

"Hardly my own: I'm no hypocrite. Rose is everything that they tell me my mother was, while I—the girl smiled strangely—"I think—I am more your daughter than my mother's."

A nod of the white head confirmed the suggestion. "It is true. I have watched you closely, Judith, perhaps more closely than even you knew. Before I was brought to this—the wasted hand made a significant gesture—"I was a man of strong passions. Your mother never loved, but rather feared me. And Rose is the mirror of her mother's nature, gentle, unselfish, sympathetic. But you, Judith, you are like a second self to me."

An accent of profound satisfaction informed his voice. The girl waited in a silence that was tensely expectant.

"Then, if on this your birthday I were to ask a service of you that might injuriously affect the happiness of your sister—"

The girl laughed briefly: "Only ask it!"

"And how far would you go to do my will?"

"Where would you stop in the service of one you loved?"

Seneca Trine nodded gravely. And after a brief pause, "Rose is in love," he announced.

"Oh, I know—I know!" the father affirmed with a faint ring of satisfaction. "I am old, a cripple, prisoner of this living tomb; but all things I should know—somehow—I come to know in course of time!"

"It's true—that Englishman she scraped an acquaintance with on the Riviera last year—what's his name?—Law, Alan Law."

"In the main," the father corrected mildly, "you are right. Only, he's not English. His father was Wellington Law, of Law & Son."

She knew better than to interrupt, then—it came to pass that we loved one woman, your mother. I won her—all but her heart: too late she realized it was Law she loved. He never forgave me, nor I him. Though he married another woman, still he held from me the love of my wife. I could not sleep for hating him—and he was no better off. Each sought the other's ruin; it came to be an open duel between us, in Wall street. One of us had to fail—and I held the stronger hand. The night before the day that was to have seen my triumph, I walked in Central park, as was my habit to tire my body so that my brain might sleep. Crossing the East drive I was struck by a motor-car running at high speed without lights. I was picked up insensible—and lived only to be what I am today. Law triumphed in the street while I lay helpless; only a living remnant of my fortune remained to me. Then his chauffeur, discharged, came to me and sold me the truth; it was Law's car with Law at the wheel that had struck me down—a deliberate attempt at assassination. I sent Law word that I meant to have a life for a life. For what was I better than dead? I promised him that, should he escape, I would have the life of his son. He knew I meant it, and sent his wife and son abroad. Then he died suddenly, of some common ailment—they said; but I knew better. He died of fear of me."

Trine smiled a cruel smile: "I had made his life a reign of terror. Ever so often I would send Law, one way or another—mysteriously always—a trey of hearts; it was my death-sign for him; as you know, our name, Trine, signifies a group of three. And every time he received a trey of hearts, within twenty-four hours an attempt of some sort would be made upon his life. The strain broke down his nerve. . . ."

"Then I turned my attention to the son, but the distance was too great, the difficulties insuperable. The Law millions mocked all my efforts; their alliance with the Rothschilds placed mother and son under the protection of every secret police in Europe. But they dared not come home. At length I realized I could win only by playing a waiting game. I needed three things: more money; to bring Alan Law back to America; and one agent I could trust, one incorruptible agent. I ceased to persecute mother and son, lulled them into a sense of false security, and by careful speculations repaired my fortunes. In Rose I had the lure to draw the boy back to America; in you, the one person I could trust."

"I sent Rose abroad and arranged that she should meet Law. They fell in love at sight. Then I wrote informing her that the man she had chosen was the son of him who had murdered all of me but my brain. It fell out as I foresaw. You can imagine the scene of passionate renunciation—pledges of undying constancy—the arrangement of a secret code whereby, when she needed him, she would send him a single rose—the birth of a great romance!"

The old man laughed sardonically. "Well, there is the history. Now the rose has been sent; Law is already homeward bound; my agents are watching his every step. The rest is in your hands."

The girl bent forward, breathing heavily, eyes aflame in a face that had assumed a waxen pallor.

"What is it you want of me?"

"Bring Alan Law to me. Dead or alive, bring him to me. But alive, if you can compass it; I wish to see him die. Then I, too, may die content."

The hand of hot-blooded youth stole forth and grasped the icy hand of death-in-life.

"I will bring him," Judith swore—"dead or alive, you shall have him here."

TELLS OF GAINS MADE BY LYNCH

Former Progressive is Won Over by Republican Nominee in the Sixth District

BELIEVES HE WILL WIN OUT

Declares the Candidate is Making Rapid Gains by His Genuinely Sincere Campaign

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 8.—That P. J. Lynch, the Newcastle Republican nominee for Congress in the sixth district, is gaining ground rapidly throughout the district and more particularly in Wayne county, was the statement of a Wayne county former Progressive who called at Republican state headquarters today.

"I happened to be in Union, Franklin and Fayette counties when Mr. Lynch visited them," said the speaker, "and it was the universal opinion that his meetings there eclipsed anything of the kind held in those counties in many years. I was at Shelbyville last Saturday when Elbert Russell, the Bull Moose nominee for congress, came into that county and was surprised at the poor showing he made. Two years ago I voted the Progressive ticket. When I saw the drift of things this year I came to realize, as I believe thousands of other former Progressives in Indiana are doing, that if anything for the real good of the country is to be accomplished, there must be a getting together. Being satisfied with the make-up of the Republican organization this year and the many progressive planks in its platform, I determined that the best way to overthrow the Democrats was by voting the Republican ticket.

"I have been paying particular attention to the campaign Mr. Lynch is making for I travel through his district. I was inclined to be against him at first but have attended some of his meetings. Having heard his addresses and having met the gentleman personally, I have been won over. After being in Shelby county when Russell spoke there I have become more firmly convinced that the Progressive cause is dead. If the party is continued it can serve only to keep the Democrats in power. The meeting scheduled for London, Shelby county, by Russell was not held as there were only eight persons out to hear him. The candidate merely shook hands all around. At Boggsstown not a man was present to meet the Progressive candidate, and the meeting there was abandoned. Only twelve voters heard Russell at Fairland.

"In Mr. Lynch the Republicans of the sixth district have an ideal candidate. His speeches are positive in character and his Republicanism is thorough. At the same time he is fair and considerate of those who left the party two years ago.

"Lynch is one of the best mixers I ever saw. He has a way of greeting people and shaking their hands that shows he is genuinely sincere in his greetings. To my mind he is liberal enough to represent faithfully his entire constituency. He is one of the best orators I ever heard. He has a most pleasing personality and I am convinced he is going to win by a substantial plurality.

"While I was at Liberty, Union county, Mr. Lynch spoke there. The next day the Liberty Herald, edited by C. W. Stivers, who had previously declared he would oppose Lynch, announced that as P. J. Lynch is not directly responsible for conditions that have prevailed in this district for years (having been a citizen of the district for but a few years) we have decided not to assail his candidacy. This shows what an impression Lynch is making.

"In Wayne county Lynch is making rapid gains. So steadily is he making friends there that he will carry the county by a safe margin."

PREACHER IS ROBBED.

(By United Press.)
London, Ontario, Oct. 8.—Rev. Isaac Wilson, pastor of Marble Memorial Methodist church at Milan, Michigan, 35 miles from Detroit, who was slugged and robbed of $4,500 on York Street near the Grand Trunk Depot last night, is reported recovering today.

PASTOR SURPRISED.

Members of the First Baptist church here have received an article from a Missouri newspaper giving a glowing account of the reception accorded the Rev. J. F. Arvin, former pastor of the church here, when he took up his work recently as pastor of the Baptist church at Benton City, Missouri. The ministers and his family were invited to drive into the country in the afternoon and when they returned home in the evening, they found it in the possession of a mob that reminded the Rev. Mr. Arvin, who had just come from Kentucky, of "Night Riders," "White Caps" and "Klu Klux." In the house they found many good things to eat and more being prepared. On the front porch was a sack of corn and by its side a wheel barrow containing a large box from which was emitted the squeal of a pig and the chirp of chickens. The demonstration was undenominational and every church and society which had representatives present was represented in the receiving line. The Rev. Mr. Arvin made a short speech thanking the people for the kindly reception. He is the only resident minister in Benton City.

A marriage license was issued this morning to William Ward and Nettie Spencer.

Ben A. Cox has on display in his store window a fall strawberry in various stages of development. The display shows the plants, the blossom, some green berries, and lastly, some that have thoroughly ripened. This plant, Mr. Cox says, begins bearing along in July some time and continues to bear until frost. It was stated a few days ago that this was a second crop of berries, but Mr. Cox said this was a mistake.

BE PRETTY! TURN GRAY HAIR DARK

Look young! Nobody can tell if you use Grandmother's simple recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray; also ends dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling hair. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe for about 50 cents.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy.

HOW FRENCH PEOPLE CURE STOMACH TROUBLE

A household remedy of the French peasantry, consisting of pure vegetable oils, and said to possess wonderful merit in the treatment of the stomach, liver and intestinal troubles, has been introduced in this country by George H. Mayr, who for twenty years has been one of the leading down town druggists of Chicago and who himself was cured by its use. So quick and effective is its action that a single dose is usually enough to bring pronounced relief in the most stubborn cases, and many people who have tried it declare they never heard of anything to produce such remarkable results in so short a time. It is known as Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy and can now be had at almost any drug store. It is now sold here by all druggists. (Advertisement.)

LIBRARIANS TO MEET NOV. 11 AND 12

State Meeting Will be Held in Indianapolis and Prospects for Large Crowd Are Good

JAMES WYER WILL SPEAK

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, Oct. 8.—The officers of the Indiana Library Association and the Library Trustees Association, are striving to make the joint convention of these organizations to be held at the Hotel Severin November 11 and 12, the most interesting in the history of the two associations. Henry N. Sanborn, secretary of the Public Library Commission, is enthusiastic over the prospect of a large attendance. "Raising the Standard of Library Service," is announced as the key-note of the convention. Legislation looking to the extension of library work in Indiana is to be discussed and on this account the officers are urging every librarian and assistant to attend and have a voice in the framing of a proposed legislative measure.

The librarians are promised a treat in the address of James I. Wyer, Jr., director of the New York State Library, who will talk at a joint session of librarians and trustees in the Severin assembly hall, Wednesday evening, November 11. The convention program which is in a tentative state will be ready for distribution in the next two weeks. Among the social features will be a reception following the joint session Wednesday evening. At a special session of the trustees Wednesday afternoon the principal subject will be prospective library legislation. Thursday morning there is to be a general session in the nature of a symposium to discuss "Focusing the Community's Interest on the Library."

Miss Ethel McCullough, of Evansville, is president of the library association. Edward L. Craig, of Evansville, is the head of the trustees' association.

E. L. Hinkle underwent a slight operation at the Sexton sanatorium this morning.

SMALL WOUND IS CAUSING TROUBLE

Life of Elmer Harlan of Blue Ridge Jeopardized by Injury Thought at First to be Slight.

CUT ON SHIN BY CORN KNIFE

A wound on the shin of the left leg which at its infliction appeared so insignificant as to be given but small amount of attention has developed to proportions of such nature and seriousness as to threaten the life of Elmer Harlan, thirty-eight years old, a well known resident of Blue Ridge. Last Saturday Mr. Harlan accidentally struck himself on the leg with a corn knife which he was using, and only a slight scratch was made. On Sunday, however, the hurt began to cause him a great amount of trouble, and blood poison has now developed. Dr. G. I. Inlow, is attending the case, and he has hopes for Mr. Harlan's recovery.

James Lutche of Greensburg underwent an operation for bladder trouble this morning at the Dr. Sexton sanatorium.
